Friends of the Delbert Hunter Arboretum and Botanic Garden – Donation Form

Non-Profit Organization 501(c)3 Taxpayer ID # 93-0843369

Although we are located next to the city park, we are not part of it. We're a separate non-profit organization. All labor is done by volunteers and all of our funding comes from donations.

DHA is home to Oregon native plants for the education and enrichment of our community. Our trails are loved by joggers, dog walkers, and visitors young and old alike. Please come visit us!

Your tax deductible donation sustains the Delbert Hunter Arboretum ~ We Thank You!

The Truth About Bambi

Everyone enjoys the experience of seeing a baby fawn hidden in the tall grass or under a bush. They are every bit as adorable as 'that Diva of all Deers', Bambi! However, it is wise to let the baby rest; no touching, no feeding, and no, it doesn't need a drink. Baby gets everything it needs from mama, including a watchful eye from somewhere nearby.

Trust in nature that the baby is safely waiting for its mother's return. It's fun to take a quick photo, but please don't linger near a fawn. Please remember to keep dogs leashed.

Baskett Slough Event for Earth Day!

The slough's vast acreage provides wetland and woodland sanctuary for migratory and resident wildlife, which range from the rare Fender's Blue butterfly, to the prolific black-tailed deer. If you've never been there, come visit and you'll see why frequent visitors love it.

Which is why we need to take care of it!

It's time for a litter pick up!

Come join Polk SWCD for a two-hour Earth Day event at Baskett Slough, Saturday, April 22.

Volunteers will help pick up litter in partnership with Andante Vineyard.

Afterwards, enjoy a complimentary glass of wine on the patio to celebrate Earth Day and a job well done!

WHEN: Everyone will meet at 10 a.m. on Saturday, April 22. All ages welcome.

WHERE: Gather in the main parking lot on Coville Road. Leaders and their groups will split up to collect litter along the roads and trails until 12 noon.

BRING: Please bring your own water and work gloves. All other supplies will be provided.

Please Sign up on SWCD's website: <https://www.polkswcd.com/district-and-community-events.html>
